GUJARAT UNIVERSITY WELCOMES NATIONAL EDUCATION POLICY (NEP)

The policy aims to open new horizons of holistic education with skill development of students for inclusiveness and global competency

PROF. HIMANSHU PANDYA
Vice Chancellor, Gujarat University

From Hon. Vice Chancellor's Desk

In this time of deadly COVID pandemic, I have received messages from faculty of all departments, thinking creatively, innovating, and experimenting with new ideas and methods to reach our students. I am positive that we have been able to provide a much more interesting and capable learning environment to our students in the ongoing semesters. Everyone is united in their commitment to not only making this semester work well, but to use the lessons to accelerate our university's progress. There is naturally a lot of uncertainty and trepidation about what's next, we cannot predict the future, and we can only try to make it better. Let's create an amazing one, together. Gujarat University faculty and staff have been preparing for online teaching, evaluation and admission. My first thought is one of extreme amazement – as to how everyone has stepped up to the unique, once-in-a-lifetime challenge we all have. You have all responded with grace, with expertise, and with lots of extra energy, and I am humbled by what I've been seeing and hearing as our community has committed itself to maintaining our students' learning momentum through the end of this semester (and beyond).

It's doubly remarkable when you think that our faculty and staff are also dealing with challenges on the home front. Many of you are venturing into the home-schooling world as well, and/or have health challenges with family members. It's inspiring to witness your dedication to your loved ones and the work you love, and I am honored to assist as I can in the effort.

We knew that we'd have to communicate and collaborate in this period in ways that we've not needed before. I am confident that very soon we shall conquer Corona and these new experiences shall continue to have a remarkable journey ahead.

Best wishes,

Prof. Himanshu A Pandya

From Hon. Pro Vice Chancellor's Desk

Amidst the hardships of the corona that has worried the whole world, congratulations on the release of the quarterly edition of Vidyavrut. Corona has resulted in decreased direct contact but increased indirect contact. Webinars have taken the place of seminars in the world of education. Gujarat University can take pride in the spirit of working online in the campus of Gujarat University regarding the subjects, through special projects continuous webinars, have been organized. Scholars from different fields from eminent institutions have been invited. As a result, all those associated with Gujarat University the knowledge of student brothers and sisters, research scholars, and professor friends has been enhanced.

Gujarat University has also organized webinars based on national education policy, Various activities organized in Gujarat University in this unique situation has been published in form documents in Vidyavrut. Congratulations to Chief Editor and entire team.

I wish good health to all the members of the University family who are constantly active in the progress of Gujarat University. I am praying to the Lord that all will be empowered to make the academic work and administrative work more accurate and faster.

Dr. Jagdish Bhavsar

From Chief Editor's Desk

Brave New World Unfolds

Amidst the invasion of corona virus we are facing unique challenges, everyday issues, work from home, social distancing, use of masks, many welcome and unwelcome reforms. Welcome to the new normal world - this new normal will require us all to undo many of our habits and adapt to the new ones. A brave new world unfolds up to battling corona. Today we have to save ourselves from COVID but also progress forward. People are again looking forward to a happy society where everyone is safe, has a decent livelihood and has access to education and healthcare. Everyone longs to enjoy freedom, enjoy art, music, dance and drama etc. To be able to enjoy all of this during pandemic we need to be more responsible. A careful balancing of our activities is both outdoor and indoor is required.

As a Brave New World unfolds there will be challenges but, we have to accept this new form of life and cherish it.
